

IHSG Market Outlook

BY SSJ MANAGEMENT

WEEKLY OVERVIEW

Market Overview

Period Details

Period: 24 August - 28 August 2026

Index IHSG (Jakarta Composite Index)

Bias: Neutral - Positive

Outlook Summary

This week's IHSG outlook leans neutral to positive. Supportive sentiment comes from a stable BI Rate, a relatively stronger rupiah, and gold remaining attractive as a safe-haven asset. The market also appears increasingly accustomed to geopolitical risk, so the impact on IHSG should remain more limited unless a new escalation occurs.

IHSG Market Drivers

Positive Supports

Factors supporting market sentiment

Stable BI Rate at 5.75%, relatively stronger rupiah, and gold strength supported by safe-haven demand.

Neutral Factors

Conditions to monitor further

Oil prices remain elevated due to geopolitics; the market is becoming more accustomed to geopolitical risk.

Key Risks

Factors that could shift sentiment

High US Treasury yields, volatile foreign flows, potential rupiah weakness, and geopolitical escalation.

SECTOR WATCH

Sectors to Watch

This Week's Investment Focus

The following sectors have relevant catalysts to monitor during 24-28 August 2026.

Focus Areas:

Banking

Stable BI Rate and potential for resilient NIM

Energy

Elevated oil prices support energy issuers

Commodities & Gold

Safe-haven sentiment and global demand remain strong

Risks to Watch

1

High US Treasury Yields

Rising US bond yields can pressure risk assets and strengthen the dollar, which may negatively affect emerging markets, including IHSG.

2

Shifting Fed Expectations

Changes in expectations for The Fed's interest-rate path can trigger global-market volatility and influence foreign flows into Indonesia.

3

Rupiah Weakness & Foreign Flows

Significant rupiah weakness and large foreign outflows can increase selling pressure in the domestic equity market.

4

Geopolitical Escalation & Oil Spikes

Unexpected geopolitical conflict or a sharp oil-price spike can change market sentiment quickly.

BIAS ANALYSIS

IHSG Bias: Neutral - Positive

What Supports It

Stable BI Rate at 5.75%, a stronger rupiah, gold strength as a safe haven, and a market that is becoming more accustomed to geopolitical risk.

What to Watch

US yields remain high, foreign flows are volatile, oil prices could rise again, and The Fed's policy expectations can shift at any time.

Confirmation Signals

Rupiah stability, US yield direction, and foreign fund flows are the key indicators to confirm whether the positive trend can continue.

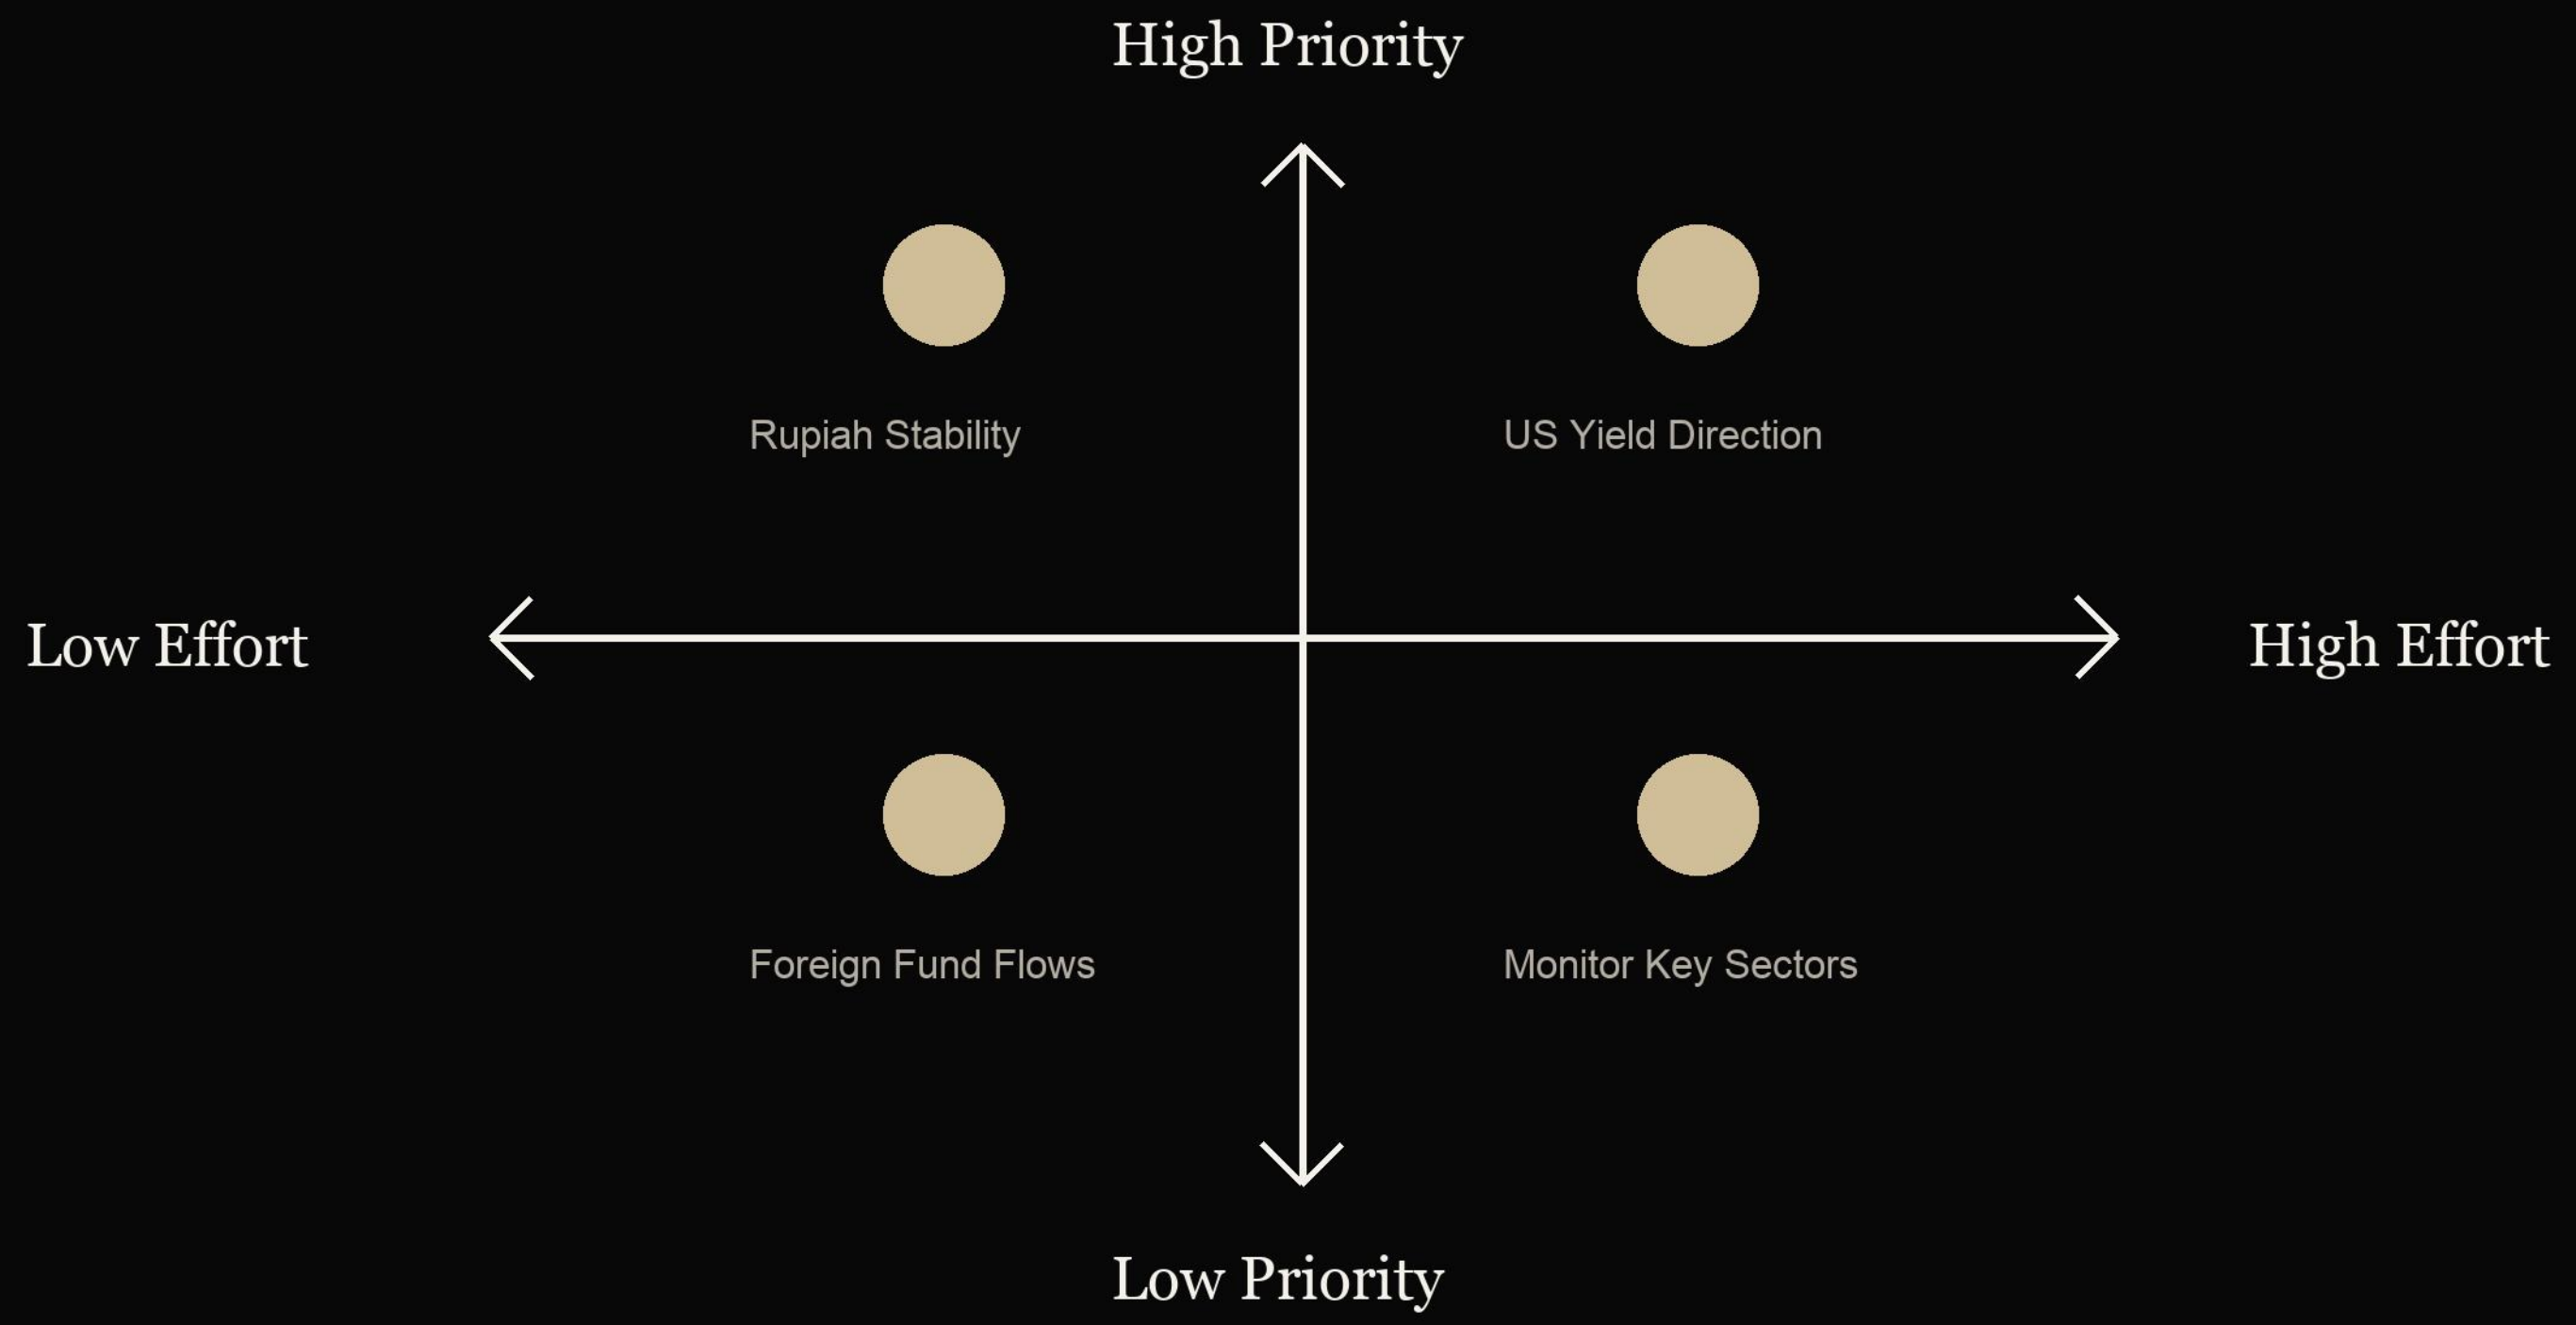

Parameters to Monitor

Rupiah Stability

Rupiah strength is a positive signal for IHSG.

US Yields & Foreign Funds

The direction of US Treasury yields and foreign fund flows are key momentum drivers.

Disclaimer

This analysis is for informational purposes and is not an investment recommendation. Every investment decision remains fully the investor's responsibility, based on their own analysis and judgement.

Outlook Period: 24-28 August 2026

Bias: Neutral - Positive | Confirmation via rupiah stability, US yields, and foreign fund flows